SENTENCING OPTIONS

CUSTODY

Statutory Provisions: Upon the finding of a violation, the court may modify the conditions of supervision; extend the term (if less than the maximum authorized term was previously imposed); or revoke the term of supervised release. 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(2) and (3).

If the court revokes supervised release, the maximum term of imprisonment upon revocation is 2 year(s). 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(3).

USSG Provisions: The allegation (failure to report within 72 hours of release) constitutes a Grade C violation. USSG § 7B1.1(a)(3), p.s.

Upon a finding of a Grade C violation, the court may (A) revoke supervised release; or (B) extend the term and/or modify the conditions of supervision. USSG § 7B1.3(a)(2), p.s.

A Grade C violation with a Criminal History Category I (determined at the time of sentencing) establishes an imprisonment range of 3 to 9 months. USSG § 7B1.4, p.s.

It is noted that in the case of a Grade C violation, and where the minimum term of imprisonment determined under USSG § 7B1.4, p.s., is at least one month but not more than six months, the minimum term may be satisfied by (A) a sentence of imprisonment; or (B) a sentence of imprisonment that includes a term of supervised release with a condition that substitutes community confinement... for any portion of the minimum term. USSG § 7B1.3(c)(1), p.s.

Since "the original sentence was the result of a downward departure ... an upward departure may be warranted" upon revocation. The court can depart from the available imprisonment range and impose a sentence of up to the statutory maximum of 24 months. USSG § 7B1.4, p.s., comment. (n.4), and 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(3).

REIMPOSITION OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

If supervised release is revoked and the offender is required to serve a term of imprisonment, the court can reimpose supervised release upon release from custody. The length of such a term shall not exceed the term of supervised release authorized by statute for the offense that resulted in the original term of supervised release, less any term of imprisonment imposed upon revocation. 18 U.S.C. § 3583(h).

In this case, the court has the authority to reimpose a term of 3 year(s) supervised release, less any term of imprisonment imposed upon revocation. 18 U.S.C. § 3583(b).

RECOMMENDATION/JUSTIFICATION

Due to the fact that Ms. Munoz' current whereabouts are unknown, the undersigned respectfully requests a no-bail bench warrant. While the instant offense is the subject's first conviction, she had numerous apprehensions at the port of entry between 2001 and 2007. The Court ordered several special conditions at the time of sentencing, to assist Ms. Munoz to become a productive member of society. The departures and reduced sentence offered by the Court were aimed at helping her to enter into treatment in a more rapid manner. The fact that she never bothered to report once she completed her custody time shows this officer that she did not fully appreciate the generosity and concern of the Court.

If found in violation, the undersigned recommends that the supervised release of Ms. Munoz be revoked, and that she be sentenced to the high-end of the imprisonment range (9 months custody). The high-end of the imprisonment range will impress upon the mind of Ms. Munoz that she is to take the orders of the Court seriously.

Ms. Munoz is in need of further supervised release, and the undersigned recommends an additional term of 24 months. The special conditions ordered at the time of sentencing are still seen as appropriate, and are being requested. Those conditions will assist Ms. Munoz in transforming her life.

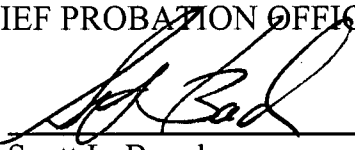

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
